Train-the-Trainer in Therapeutic Responses through Positive Behavior Supports

Abstract: This two-day workshop is designed as a Train-the-Trainer course to certify instructors for Therapeutic Responses through Positive Behavior Support. The first day of the presentation will be taught in the same format that instructors will teach staff in their agency. The second day will include supplemental information for instructors, time to practice teaching, and assessment of content and physical intervention techniques.

Who Should Attend? Participants may include staff who previously taught Therapeutic Intervention or who are new to this role. Participants should be skilled in implementing positive behavior supports, have experience working with individuals with challenging behavior, possess a good understanding of behavior support plans, and know their agency's policies and procedures on restrictive measures, crisis response, and abuse and neglect.

Prerequisites: Participants from DD Provider agencies are required to complete Positive Behavior Supports and Legal Issues module exams and practica prior to attending the class.

Participants from other education and human service sectors are required to know the legal issues related to behavioral supports, abuse and neglect, and the use of physical intervention techniques in their setting. They should also read the Positive Behavior Supports training module which will be mailed electronically upon registration.
