

FIRST RESPONDER DISABILITY AWARENESS TRAINING

WHAT:

The North Dakota Center for Persons with Disabilities in conjunction with the Ohio Disability & Health Program has produced a one-hour training for first responders on working with people with disabilities. This course has been designed to provide first responders with the information and methods that will help to ensure effective and appropriate communication between first responders and people with disabilities.

WHO:

This training is for law enforcement, firefighters, nurses, social workers, and EMTs/paramedics.

WHERE:

The free course is available online at www.ndcpd.org/first-responder.html.

This training has been extended through September 30, 2022.

This training has been approved for one hour credit through North Dakota Peace Officer Standards and for the LCCR credit hours through ND EMS System, a Division of Emergency Medical Systems. Social worker and nursing contact hours are offered through this training as well. A certificate of completion will be issued following training and post-survey completion.

For more information, contact Christine Brigden at christine.brigden@MinotStateU.edu.

This training was funded by the North Dakota State Council on Developmental Disabilities (Contract #600-11064).
